People at orissa are more intiative takers, more cauragious and more positive than WB people.
2873. AHARSKAR DAS yes, certainly Orissa do need such kind of inst. for its future aspirants and i wish U all out there for this noble cause.Warm to see all of these happening!!!!
2872. Sunasira Misra Indeed, Orissa needs such an education and research organisation.
2871. Bhrigu Bakshipatra
2870. P. Sahoo The decision taken by the Govt. to eliminate Orissa to open IIS for education and research is highly regreted. However I request honourable PM to think of deeply reg this matter. Though Orissa is a backward state standard of edn. in Orissa universities are much higher than many other states. Without getting proper facility many Oriya people are shinning in many spheres. One can realise the knowledge of Pathani Samanta and his contribution during those days when Science was deemed even in entire globe. If such Institute is opened in Orissa the potential of Oriya peoples knowledge can be realised. hope honourable PM can think again without adopting step mother relationship.
2869. B.S.Panigrahi Orissa is a potential but backword state. To harness its potential, such steps are necessary.
2868. AUROJEET

2867. Sujata Pradhan, software professional Honourable, Prime Minister, The backwardness of Orissa state can only be removed by utilizing its resources. The best utilization of resoures can be accomplished by its people. Therefore, the people/young generation of Orissa should be trained in Science and Technology. So far Orissa does not have a national institute. So the proposed IISER at Bhubaneswar should not be shifted to Kolkotta. Calcutta has many national institutes. If add one more national institute to it, It will be like, "adding a drop of water to an Ocean". Instead if it is kept in Bhubaneswar, the people of Orissa would be very happy and it will be like , giving a glass of water to a thrisy and hungry person, who needs it. Therefore, kindly reset the things to Bhubaneswar. More over you are a highly learned person and world famous economist, you have better exposure than all of us, so national institutes should be distributed all over the Indian states not in selected states. Nation wide distribution will lead to national intigrity and avoid The socioeconomic development of Orissa is possible only by educating its people or young generation by making them strong in Science and Technology. So that they can find means to utilize their resources and generate wealth and employment. Secondly Orissa needs more technical manpower/technocrats to tackle natural calamities such as cyclone, flood and famine. So it is our honest request to honourable parliamentarians that they should consider the need of Orissa state. Therefore, it is essential to establish an IISER in Orissa.The other thing that strike to my mind is by equally distributing the national institutes all over India, the regional balance can be achieved and various polarizations can be avoided. The most important aspect is decongestion of cities by equally distributing the national institutes all over India, that will enhance intigrity and national unity. Therefore, the states that does not have national institutes should be given one.
2866. Dr. Hrudananda Jena
it should be built in orissa as people r neglecting orissa which i believe can really grow into a good software hub.
2865. pritam mahendra
